
Named after an old Native American legend about the healing powers of the island's sulfur rich water, Indian Rocks Beach now provides a mixture of recreation and relaxation to nearly 5000 residents. There are twenty public beach accesses, several parks, restaurants and shops, as well as rich artistic offerings and organized youth programs. This is a close knit community committed to providing both the vacationers and permanent resident with a charming family oriented place to enjoy "THE WORLD'S SAFEST BEACH."
